SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

There be none of Beauty's daughters
With a magic like thee;
And like music on the waters
Is thy sweet voice to me;
When, as if its sound were causing
The charmed ocean's pausing,
The waves lie still and gleaming
And the lull'd winds seem dreaming.

And the midnight moon is weaving
Her bright chain o'er the deep;
Whose breast is gently heaving,
As an infant asleep;
So the spirit hovers before thee,
To listen and adore thee,
With a full but soft emotion
Like the swell of Summer's ocean.

SONG.

No. 506.

By THOMAS PARNELL.

Thomas Parnell was born in Dublin in 1679; died in 1718. He was educated at Trinity College; took holy orders in the Church of England. He lived mostly in London.

WHEN thy beauty appears
In thy graces and airs,
All bright as an angel new dropped from the sky,
At distance I gaze and am awed by my fears,
So strangely you dazzle my eye!

But when without art
Your kind thoughts you impart,
When your love runs in blushes through every vein;
When it darts from your eyes, when it pants in your heart,
Then I know you're a woman again.

There's a passion and pride
In our sex (she replied),
And thus, might I gratify both, I would do;
Still an angel appear to each lover beside,
But still be a woman to you.

This series began in The Times-Dispatch Sunday, Oct. 11, 1905. One is published each day.
